(Lindsay Hoehl)

Shame holds me captive
Fear holds me back
Anger controls my thoughts
I've got to forget my past

It's all so much to grasp
And I know I must let it go
But these feelings lock me in
And I sink so low

Yet in the dark, I call your name
You enter in and calm this storm inside my heart

Feel me inside
Let me breathe new life
Heal my brokenness
Make me whole again

I know I've come so far
And the worst is over now
And I've found my joy within
But still the sadness creeps back in

Yet in the dark, I call your name
You enter in and calm this storm inside my heart, my heart, this storm, you calm

I'm no longer paralyzed
I won't fall in to this trap inside

(Mechanization)
Yet in the dark
I call your name
You enter in and calm, calm

Rise and change
Take back the day
Crush and slay despair and pain
Fight, enslave, the weak that prey
Break the chains
Remain the brave

Power, lose your pride
Overcome, the pain inside
What you know, shall collide
Stand up strong, do not hide

Power

Now the time is here
For you to show no fear
Conquer all that's near
Awaken through a mind that's clear
