

Victory

© 2007 Mechanization | www.mechanization.us

Drop your knife, restitution
Wake to life, vibration
Fight your strife, resolution
I am not the pain of your vision
I won't die, execution
Walk outside, situation
Don't you try, your intention
I won't join your mission

Cuz I pray that you'll one day find the strength to say
This life that you're living will never save the torn out page
All these years of this dismissed pain won't be forgotten just so you can fade away

Don't you lie, the conclusion
Lose your pride, for solution
Look inside, for fruition
What you tried won't stop my evolution
I won't cry, from intrusion
End this night, and illusion
What is right, substitution
I must end this friction

So I pray that you'll one day find a way to save
This life that you're living, it's not too late to make a change

Why can't you fight when the snake tries to take a bite
When will you try to live life without a wish to die
Why can't you fight when the snake tries to take a bite
When will you try to live life without a wish to die

I pray that you'll one day find the strength to say
This life that you're living will never save the torn out page
All these years of this dismissed pain won't be forgotten just so you can fade away

All these years of this dismissed pain won't be forgotten just so you can fade away, away